From Panic to Prepared: How Tarheel Design Stopped Hackers in Their Tracks with Guardyne Managed Security Services

The Challenge: Tarheel Design, a bustling design firm with 10 employees, relied on basic security measures. But they worried, "Cyberattacks seemed to happen everywhere, and we felt vulnerable despite our antivirus software." The growing reliance on their Microsoft 365 suite for client data and communication fueled their concerns.

The Near Miss: One Monday morning, they arrived to find chaos. Employees reported strange emails, sluggish systems, and suspicious activity alerts. A ransomware attack was suspected, potentially putting client data and projects at risk.

The Scramble: Panic set in. With limited in-house IT expertise, Sarah had no idea where to begin. Fortunately, they had recently been introduced to Guardyne Managed Security Services (MSSP) specializing in SMBs and M365 security.

The Power of Proactive Threat Detection: We swung into action immediately:

- Real-time threat detection: Their 24/7 monitoring system had already identified suspicious activity and initiated containment measures.
- Expert investigation: Our team traced the source of the attack and determined it was a sophisticated phishing campaign targeting employee credentials.
- Rapid response: They swiftly isolated compromised accounts, and neutralized the ransomware.
